PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Porcupine Valley Indian Troubles.

SACRAMENTO, July 7.—Governor Irwin has received a request from the people of Cedarville, Surprise valley for arms to protect them against Indians. He has telegraphed the government at Washington for an order for 250 stand of arms from the U. S. depot in California, but has no answer yet.

Kearney's Parting Speech.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—At a meeting on the sand lots yesterday Kearney said: "On Monday I shall leave here to pay a visit to my native Boston. I have been offered a free ride, but I do not want it. All I expect from the sand lots until such time as I am ready to sue the city and make them pay damages for my false imprisonment. I shall return to the state about the time the convention meets, in September in readiness if necessary to lead a band of patriots to the mountains, and there hang every man who breaks his pledges to the people. In the event of trouble I shall be found in the midst of the slain. The Herald, in the midst of the slain, denounces the capitol at Washington I denounce the inmates as a den of thieves, and right there and in the city of which I will deliver speeches as radical as any which I have ever delivered in San Francisco. I have been advised not to do this, but without apprehend danger. There is a very large contract for Chinese brick at present, and I am informed that a certain company will for yard a large stock manufactured. I have been a mistake about this business, and I am glad to inform you that to-morrow the above-named company will supply the Industrial college with all the bricks it may need, and that every one of them will be made by white labor. The president of the college has given me his word that not a single brick made by the mongolian lepers will be used in the construction of the new college."

Board Presidents' Meetings.

A board of ward presidents held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon. It was decided that the plan of inducing merchants and business men to put placards out stating that no Chinese were employed in their establishments, also that one desiring the services of the workingmen and others in accord with the movement be without employment to those persons who dealt with any Chinese encouraged the Chinese, be adopted.

Dividends.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—At a meeting of the directors of the California to-day a dividend of $10 per share was declared. The dividend of the Consolidated Virginia for June was $1,000,000.

U. S. Fair Resigns.

On account of ill health James G. Fair has resigned the superintendency of the Bonanza and other mines under his control. Assistant Superintendent W. H. Patton has been appointed in his stead.

New Japan Steamer Arrived.

The mail steamer City of Peking arrived from China and Japan four days overdue, her engines having broken down on the passage. She brought only 192 passengers.

Homicide.

HANFORD, July 7.—This afternoon Patrick Kelley, while in a drunken sleep near Grangeville in the outskirts of the town, was struck in the head with an axe and killed.

Indian Murder.

VISALIA, July 8.—Vicente, an Indian, who committed a brutal murder in this place yesterday, was arrested, tried and bound over to await the action of the grand jury. The knife he took from his victim has been found.

NEVADA.

The Savage-Sutro Connection.

VIRGINIA, July 8.—It is expected that connection between Savage mine and Sutro tunnel will be made before morning.

Body Found.

Sunday it is boy missing from Dayton, was found in Carson river by a Piute Indian.

Julia Pumped Out.

The mine will be out of Julia to-morrow.

Forest Baths Mountain.

VIRGINIA, July 8.—A fire broke out in Forest Baths Mountain hotel about 12 o'clock last night, near the room occupied by Ward, a domestic. The fire was discovered, and owing to the scarcity of water the brick building of Bowers & Co. was the only building in the block, consisting of about fifteen houses. Mrs. Ward perished in the flames, a teamster, was badly burned, and his ankle sprained by jumping from a window on the second floor. It is not known how the fire originated. A man was shot at while he was trying to save his hay stack belonging to E. Hardy, but nothing was saved and the hay was entirely uninsured. Several families are destitute. Loss, about $35,000.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Shipping.

VICTORIA, July 7.—The bark Frank Austin, three days from Santa Monica, has arrived at Departure Bay, whence the ship will be sailed with a cargo of coal on account of the Pacific Coal Company.

The steamers Enquire and Elvira Davale are loading lumber at Moody & Co.'s mills, Burrard Inlet.

Mining.

Rich gold strike in the St. Lawrence district yesterday.

Fishing.

The fishing regulations will be observed this season and other fishing establishments on the Fraser river. Fishing for salmon is prohibited from 12 o'clock noon on Saturday P. M. on Sundays; nets, etc., during the capture of salmon will be prohibited in the Fraser river.

The run of salmon has commenced in the Fraser river.

Corruption at Kootenai.

Evidence taken before the royal commission now sitting here disclosed an astonishing state of corruption at Kootenai. G. T. Cox, late constable at Kootenai, swears that he has seen votes bought openly at the polls for a glass of beer and money, and that American citizens from the border into British territory take some sort of an oath before a magistrate and then control the elections. Kootenai is situated on the southern border of the province, has forty-five registered voters, who return two members, or a twelfth of the whole representation to parliament.

Mr. Bryant and the Young Poets.

[New York Evening Post.]

Mr. Bryant's tenderness of the feelings of other persons, and his earnest desire always to avoid the giving of unnecessary pain, were illustrated in a very amusing manner. Very soon after I began to do literary editor, Mr. Bryant, while reading a review of a little book of verses by a lady, said to me: "I wish I could deal very gently with poets, especially with the weaker ones." Later I had a very bad case of poets to deal with, and as Mr. Bryant happened to come in while I was debating the matter in my mind, I said to him that I was embarrassed by his injunction to deal gently with poets, and pointed out to him the utter impossibility of finding anything to praise, or even to condemn, in the book before me. He answered: "No, you can't praise it. It won't do to lie about it; but examining the volume over and inspecting it, you might say that the binding is strong, and that—well, the binder has turned the edges pretty smooth."

THE INDIAN WAR!

A Party of Indians Attempt to Cross the River 15 Miles below Umatilla.

Major Kress Runs the Spokane among them and scatters them.

Camp and Fixtures Destroyed.

General Howard at Pilot Rock.

The Hostile Bands Dividing Up.

UMATILLA, July 8, 10:30 A. M.

Major Kress at two o'clock this morning went down the river on the steamer Spokane to Coyote station, fifteen miles below this place. He passed the crossing at the upper end of Long Island two miles this side of the station. He saw no signs of Indians. Evidently the Indians mistook the Spokane for the regular morning boat which leaves at 1 o'clock on Mondays. As soon as it passed the head of Long Is land they began to move their stock. Maj. Kress returned immediately and found the hostile Indians crossing a large number of horses. He ran upon them. Some of the horses returned to the Oregon side, others crossed over the river, about two hundred and fifty, the major thinks, there being about three hundred on the Oregon side. Major Kress made an attack on the Indians' camp and destroyed it and everything about it, including all the canoes. A number of saddle blankets and buffalo robes were found at the camp. Squads of hostiles have been in sight all the morning with stock. Scouts are out. Gen. Howard was at Pilot Rock yesterday, undoubtedly moving this way. One small band of Indians with about eighty head of horses passed down opposite and in sight of this place this morning to join the hostiles that crossed below. One of them told Mr. Switzler this morning that Howard was coming this way. Mr. Switzler advised him not to join the war party, and he said it was no use to talk to Indians. Mr. Switzler at once removed his family from the Washington side to this place. He lives nearly opposite Umatilla. This Indian with whom Mr. Switzler talked was one he had heretofore regarded as friendly. This Indian Bill stated also that the hostiles were divided into three parties; two would go below the landing and one above, but he would not tell Mr. S. when they would cross. They are scattering to gather in renegade Indians for a fight or protracted campaign. Major Kress is below patrolling the river. I shall communicate with Gen. Howard to-day.

S. F. CHADWICK.

Complimentary Order.

UMATILLA, July 8—1:40 P. M.

Gov. Chadwick has sent the following letter of recognition of gallant services from Umatilla to J. B. Sperry, captain of the company of Pendleton volunteers:

MY DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of yours of the 7th inst., in which you detail the particulars of the fight of the 5th with hostile Indians in which your company of volunteers was engaged. While I deeply regret that you should lose any of your brave comrades, or that any should have been wounded, I am pleased to know that your loss was so small as it is. We shall revere the memory of those who fell in this struggle, and honor those who survive, for their patriotic endeavors to protect the lives of our citizens. Permit me to tender to you and to the members of your company of volunteers the thanks of the people of this state for the bravery and gallantry which you exhibited in your desperate fight of the 5th inst. with hostile Indians. With great respect for you and your comrades in arms, I have the honor to be your most obedient servant.

S. F. CHADWICK,
Governor of Oregon.

Capt. Wilkinson Patrolling the River.

WALLULA, July 8.

The steamer Northwest will leave here this afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. She will be used as a patrol boat, likely between here and Umatilla. She is in command of Captain Wilkinson, who has twenty men hired and 12 soldiers well armed. There is a gatling gun aboard and he will receive two howitzers from Vancouver. Capt. Wilkinson feels confident he will catch the Indians crossing the river between here and Umatilla to-night.

Another Effort to Cross.

UMATILLA, July 8—9 P. M.

Capt. Wilkinson, with the steamer Northwest, made an attack this afternoon on a band of Indians crossing horses over the river, about eight miles above here, killing a large number of horses and, it is supposed, an Indian or two.

Further Depredations.

SCOTT'S, Ogn., July 8—8:30 P. M.

Very reliable information comes to-day from the vicinity of Long creek, which empties into the North Fork of John Day river. The information is given by families moving to the Dalles for safety. They say the Indians visited Long creek last night, burning seven ranches clean and driving off and killing stock. One man—[Here the line broke.—Or. ED.]

The Company for Ochoco.

ALBANY, July 8, 1878.

Sent fifty well armed men with Needle guns over the mountain road to Ochpco, under command of Major Herren, with 5,000 rounds of ammunition. Will be at Portland to-morrow morning to try to take remainder of organized companies up the Columbia.

HART. V. BROWN.

STATE ARMS AND MILITARY STORES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

By the report of Adjutant General Reed, for 1866, it appears the militia of this state was quite well organized.

The enrolled militia of the state consisted of 12,973 men. And there were then on hand and under the control of the adjutant general, belonging to the state 208 muskets, 482 rifled muskets, 400 United States rifles and 335 sabers. There were also 113 tents, 102 camp kettles, 110 coffee boilers and other camp and garrison equipage. These munitions of war are now needed to protect the citizens of Eastern Oregon. Let the governor, or whoever is commander-in-chief, call for these arms, and if not forthcoming, hold the delinquent parties to a strict accountability.

X.

Eliza again "Goes Back on Herself."

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—Colonel Jack Wharton, United States marshal, has received a letter from Postmaster Smith at Canton, Mississippi, in which Smith says he has just seen Eliza Pinkston, who informs him she has been interviewed by a prominent Democrat from Louisiana, who desired her to go to New Orleans and give testimony contradictory to that given by her before the returning Board. She made a statement to this Democrat, which he now contradicts. She also contradicts the recently published affidavit purporting to have been made by her.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

"My eye," said Ben Butler, speaking of Mrs. Jenks; "my eye, my right eye, what a woman!"

Col. Robert M. Douglas, son of Stephen A. Douglas, has again been commissioned as United States marshal of North Carolina after a severe contest.

Harper for July has no poetry, and it is said that of a cart load of such contributions on hand not one was found of sufficient merit to appear in print.

Nearly all the wheat in Missouri is cut and shocked, much of it is stacked, and some has been thrashed out and is in the St. Louis market. It is said to be of excellent quality.

In 1868 W. C. Bryant said of Henry Ward Beecher: "He would make a good actor; he is out of place in the pulpit." Mr. Beecher gets even in 1878 by calling "Thanatopsis" a pagan poem.

Edmond About, who has just a tinge of German blood in him, is big-chested and short tempered. He gives elegant family dinner parties, at which his daughters distribute roses to each guest.

Among the hills and mountains, three or four miles from the village of Orfordville, N. H., lives an old man who served under Wellington at the battle of Waterloo. His name is Samuel Mousley.

A man in Helena, Montana, recently lost $700 in greenbacks, but some days afterward found that his little daughter had used the money to make a head-dress for her doll, clipping off the corners to make a good fit.

Henri Rochefort has his plan for settling socialism, which, however, he fears the congress of Berlin will not adopt; it is a law in one section, as follows: "Hereafter all the poor shall have an income of 10,000 francs a year."

The late Marshal Barsguey d'Hilliers, who died not long ago in France at the age of 83, was the senior of the marshals of France. Louis Napoleon sounded him as to the Coup d'etat. "You can get no soldier to enter into such a combination who is satisfied with his rations," replied the marshal, frankly; "you had better ask Marshal Magnan." Napoleon did.

William Cullen Bryant left half a million or more to his two daughters, with this provision against its diversion: "If either of my daughters should die without children, I direct that whatever she is to receive by this instrument shall go to her surviving sister. I direct, further, that the property given to my daughters shall be settled upon them in such a manner as to be free from any intermeddling or control of the husband of either of them."

POLITICAL POINTS.

Burlington Hawkeye: As a matter of history it might as well be recorded that the author of the Iowa Republican platform is from Ohio.

Baltimore Gazette: Mrs. Jenks and Bessie Turner stand out on the pages of American history as the two great female witnesses who would rather die than tell the whole truth.

Albany Journal: It must be allowed to the credit of Mrs. Jenks that she fully sustains the reputation of the Louisiana politicians. The distinctive Louisiana quality does not appear to be bounded by any party or confined to any sex.

Philadelphia Record: The high-tariff Democrats of Philadelphia have conceived the idea of giving Speaker Randall a complimentary dinner on the strength of his professions. The free traders of Manhattan are intending to do him a similar honor in consideration of his practices.

This is undoubtedly a white man's government, but then the only man on the Democratic committee on enrolled bills during the last night of the late session of congress who was sober enough to attend to his business was a negro. The balance were drunk, if all reports are correct.

Greenback papers are being started all over New England, and the Boston Journal thinks that as second-hand printing material will be very cheap in about six months. The Journal rebukes the hard-money papers for making so much of the greenback movement, because that has set all the political tramps a-marching into the greenback camp.

"WHOOPING UP GRANT."

Most of the Republican state conventions this year try to make up for a coldness toward Hayes by a prodigious enthusiasm for Grant. Even in the Ohio convention this was a conspicuous feature. Iowa followed suit, and Illinois has outdone them all. The Chicago Times' special is show that the Springfield convention, held on the 26th June, was "for the glory of Grant." We copy the following:

This morning, when the trains brought in the final detachments of delegates to the convention, the fact became glaringly apparent that it was to be not so much a gathering of politicians bent upon a division of merely local spoils as a sort of mass convention for the implied nomination of Grant to the next presidential term. Above all the din of war over immediate offices rose the cry for Grant. His name was heard everywhere, and occasionally the enthusiasm effervesced into cheers for Grant. At 9 o'clock the Macon county delegation, backed by its constituency to the number of about two hundred, came marching up from the depot to the Leland, headed by a military band, and bearing banners inscribed for Grant. "Macon county solid for Grant in 1880." "No 8 to 7 in 1880." "Two good terms deserve another." "Grant is peace," and several other similarly toned sentences fired the crowd to frantic howls, which rose to yells when a chromo picture of "The Old Man," wreathed in evergreens, was hoisted into view."

Vindication of Shakespeare's Insight.

[From the New York World.]

Who was it that first denied the reality of Shakespeare's women? Yet here we have one of them at Washington. With her imperturbable audacity, her airy self-possession, her thorough knowledge of her own woman's strength, her quick appreciation of the precise value of each of her antagonists, Mrs. Jenks might have walked out of one of Shakespeare's comedies. Her flashes of wit and her touches of humor do not mar the illusion. Of course nobody could expect the Potter committee to bring out more than one phase of a "Katharine" or a "Beatrice." But it is a surprise, and we ought to be thankful for it, to see this mermaid rising up, glass and comb in hand, out of the troubled waters of Louisiana politics. Mrs. Jenks is a woman of genius. To estimate the "faculty," as New Englanders would call it, shown by her, compare her on the stand, for instance, with General Boynton, a man of no small experience in public affairs and of good natural capacity, who had a straightforward story to tell. Where she for days held on her tortuous way unruffled, General Boynton in the course of an hour or two stumbled, lost his temper and damaged a good case by his indiscreet abuse of his tormentors.

The Chicago Tribune, a strong and straight Republican paper, regrets the loss of a Republican member of the house from Oregon, but says the loss of the legislature doesn't make much difference; it was Mitchell's own funeral, and the senate will be Democratic anyhow. It also says, "There is no mistaking the lesson of the Oregon election, and Republican managers everywhere will do well to cut it out and paste it in their hats."

The Springfield (Ill.) Journal, which was supposed to be wholly dead, has reappeared after a fortnight's elapse, and says it will be able now to go on. "There is life in the old Journal yet," the publisher declares. The paper has been published forty-seven years.

FUTURE OF THE RAILROAD QUESTION.

POSSIBLE FORCES TO SECURE THE N. P. R. R. EXTENSION BILL IN THE NEXT SESSION OR IN THE NEXT CONGRESS.

The defeat of the N. P. R. R. bill this session, says the Sacramento Record-Union, diminishes its chance of becoming a law at the next session." This would be true with the same conditions. But failure in one mode of a right cause turns true friends to another mode. Grant, for the sake of argument, that the U. P. & C. P. R. R. will try to stop every rival transcontinental railroad north or south of their line, or to buy its controlling stock, if it wins its way, then the first step is to measure the force of that combined opposition. It is folly to blink such a fact. It is wisdom to count its full measure. If it is a vested capital of $200,000,000 with a net income of $20,000,000—two hundred millions of dollars with an annual income of twenty millions of dollars—opposing the N. P. R. R. and the Texas P. R. R., the friends of the two rival roads ought to keep that fact in sight.

LARGER FORCES CONFRONT THIS VAST CAPITAL.

This wealth created and represented by one railroad is only a sign of what can be created by one or two or three other lines across the continent. One store in a good location invites two or three or five others. They come and win their share of the trade and profits and thus the village grows into a city. Suppose the first store fights the second and the two combine against the third, the contest will end in planting all three stores. If the present overland railroad develops business and pays better every year—which is the known fact—then rival lines can and will be built. The force of the existing line, however rich and mighty, points to a twofold or threefold force to be developed in other lines. We can count that force at twice twelve hundred millions, that will be real property in the market in ten years after the other two lines are built.

CASH VALUE OF ONE OVERLAND ROAD.

The capital of the U. P. R. R., in 1876, was $116,220,212. That of the C. P. R. R., in 1876, was $140,440,188. Amount of both $256,660,400.

The assessed value of property in California alone, in 1874-5, was $611,495,197.

Its value during five years after the overland railroad was done had risen over three hundred and seventy four millions of dollars. This testimony from the assessors' books is a good offshoot in the case.

One hundred and fifty per cent. gain in assessed property in California in five years after the overland railroad was completed is an argument that will move capitalists to enter upon like enterprises. Thirty-one and three fifths per cent. per year will rouse the bankers small and large in our country and in Europe to again secure the prize. Every man's acre shares the gain. Small landholdings in California are made rich by the overland railroad who were poor before its completion. Large landholders there have gained the wealth of princes, without effort on their part, simply by the completion of that railroad. San Francisco has more than doubled its population and its property valuation by the same cause. Sacramento has lifted itself up out of the swamps, dyked itself with high and solid lines of embankment against the floods, and laid itself out with inviting homes for its increasing population. Of industrious artisans and merchants from the impulse given by the completion of this road. San Jose, Santa Cruz, Los Angeles, Marysville, Chico and many other cities thrive and grow from the life imparted by this overland road and its branches.

GAIN TO STATES AND TERRITORIES.

Other states through which this road passes have gained a large per cent. by its completion. They have received millions from this enterprise without investing one dollar in it.

The productions of Utah, mineral, agricultural and miscellaneous, in 1875, amounted to $17,314,337. The increase of land cultivated in 1875 over 1874 was 60,250 acres. The surveyor general reported land sold in the year 1875 50,936 acres.

The imports and exports of Utah during 1875 were $9,155,851. The large business of that interior territory is due almost entirely to the completion of the overland railroad.

Such facts apply to all the states and territories on the line and adjacent to the line of the completed road. Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri and Illinois have received like increase of real property values. The unsold millions of acres of government land on the line, and for hundreds of miles on either side, have been made salable by that finished road.

PRODUCTS MADE AVAILABLE.

The miscellaneous products of Utah consisted of pig iron, iron ore, coal, coke, fire clay, granite, ice, wool, tallow, hides, pelts, which in 1875 amounted to 3,276,499 tons, worth $860,384. They represent similar classes of products developed in other states and territories by the U. P. & C. P. railroads.

These freights were moved and these goods were made marketable by means of the overland railroad and its connections. Such an interior commerce was impossible until that highway was opened. Such productions are impossible from the vast interior of our continent without such trans-continental roads.

UTAH MINERAL PRODUCTS, 1875.

Base bullion, tons	16,380 at $250		$4,082,500
Lead bullion, tons	44 at	100	4,400
Silver lead ore, tons	312 at	100	532,000
Copper bullion, tons	849 at	250	87,000
Copper ore, tons	224 at	50	14,200
Silver bars			35,800
Gold dust			750,000
Ore on dumps at mines, smelters tons	10 000
Tons	27,819		86,145,211

These mineral values were in fact mostly created by the railroad which transports the crude ores and base bullion to the smelters and thus to market. The ores of Idaho, Montana, Dakota, Arizona and New Mexico lie buried and useless, waiting for the railroad cars and engines to put them into the life currents of business.

These products were mostly created by the influence of the overland railroad. They represent like products in ten other interior states and territories, which must depend mostly on transcontinental railroads for their development. Of these seventeen millions of Utah productions in 1875 it is fair to set ten millions as the effect of the overland railroad. Multiply that gain by ten other such states and you have one hundred millions of yearly products waiting for such railroads.

The rise in value of lands and other real property exceeds three hundred per cent. in ten years, as per the census tables in California. Count the gain one dollar per acre in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Dakota and the proposed territory of Lincoln as the result of the completed N. P. R. R., and count it as much in Western Texas, New Mexico and Arizona in case of the completed Texas & Southern Pacific Railroad—the whole making an area of five hundred million acres—and that sum will at once be added to the permanent value of those states and of the nation.

Unless both roads are built those values cannot be created. This argument is effective now. In view of it the C. P. R. R. have pushed the construction of the Southern Pacific railroad.

The S. P. R. R. Company has

Author'zed capital stock	$90,000,000
First mortgage bonds authorized	45,000,000
12,000,000 acres land grant value at $2 50 per acre	30,000,000
Total	$165,000,000

This immense preparation and outlay imply faith in a completed southern overland railroad. The 350 miles built from San Francisco to Fort Yuma on the Colorado, on the western end, and about 450 miles westward through Texas on the eastern end are proofs of a set purpose to complete that entire line. The strife of the two companies to secure special grants and advantages from congress adds the evidence of their intense desire to win the greatest benefits from the enterprise. In fact that transcontinental railroad has been a foregone conclusion for many months past in the minds of thinking observers of the facts.

THE SIGNS OF HOPE FOR THE N. P. R. R.

Its defeat in congress this year was evidently due to its restrictions. But the public in the great north west, from the lakes to the Pacific, has become aroused to its importance and its danger. The press of Chicago and New York is awake on the subject. The plottings of its foes in and out of congress are watched and exposed. The merits of its claims and the injustice of neglecting or denying them are seen and felt by larger numbers in the house and senate. Business men and capitalists in city and country in the north, and many in the south, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, are believed to favor the enterprise as an act of justice to its creditors and of necessity to the unity and welfare of the whole country.

Its certainty and value to Oregon are assured by the present narrow gauge railroads built and in process and plan of construction to transport the products of the smaller valleys of the interior Columbia basin to the river. These branch lines anticipate not only water carriage to the sea, but a trunk line of railroad to tide water. Otherwise they would be idle three or four months every year while the upper Columbia is blocked with ice. Every railroad branch system implies a trunk line.

A CLEARER SIGN.

The increase of yearly business on its 600 miles of road; the quick sales of its lands in Dakota and Minnesota; the growth of settlements along its proposed route; the proofs of its vast resources of choice coal, lime and iron mines, and timber forests on and near Puget Sound, besides its agricultural lands, furnish evidence that it will pay expenses and the interest on the capital needed to finish it.

ITS NEED.

More than all it needs friends from Oregon and Washington in the house and senate. Faith, hope, courage and diligence in a man who sees and feels its absolute necessity to our success can win the case. An open, earnest, broad-minded, hearty plea in private and in public, with untiring zeal, will secure the simple extension of time to the N. P. R. R. Co. to finish their road. Divided counsels, partisan efforts and doubtful restrictions will defeat it in the future as in the past.

The late Oregon election hinged upon this question. Oregon has instructed her representatives in the legislature to send her ablest, truest and most faithful citizen to the senate to work for the completion of the N. P. R. R. as a national enterprise; and as an act of justice to 10,000 creditors who invested $30,000,000 in its good faith 8 years ago, and who have received no interest on their investment, as an absolute necessity to the welfare of this great northwest, and to thousands of hardy pioneer settlers, who have, with faith in the government pledges to the road, invested themselves and their property in homes on this exposed frontier, and as a most efficient means of protection from Indian wars along this northern belt of our country. The voice and vote of Oregon emphasize every one of these reasons at this moment.

G. H. ATKINSON.

NOTES AND NEWS.

Dr. Redfield says that the cabinet officers, with the exception of Evarts, live within their salaries.

Cincinnati Gazette: A spring chicken costs no more than three glasses of beer or two medium cigars. Yet "sufferers," with cigars in their mouths and stomachs full of beer, call for "bread or blood."

The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph demands that the southern people shall be paid for their emancipated slaves. Next they will probably want pay at hotel rates, for the entertainment the Union prisoners during the war.

Very little is now said about the silver dollar. It is not seen. Much is said about the Mexican dollar, because it is seen and not wanted. Yet the latter contains better silver and more of it than the dollar of the dads.

The natural bridge of Virginia can now be bought for $14,000, the present proprietor having gone into bankruptcy. Some money has been made out of it in past seasons, for every traveler was compelled to pay a dollar for the privilege of going under it and looking up.

Thurlow Weed is one of the largest and most muscular of the editorial fraternity. This remark of course applies to his earlier days, for he now feels the effect of time. He is just three years younger than Bryant, and considering his age, is in remarkable preservation.

Is it Hard Times?

[From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

There are, according to the new directory, 1,507 saloons and 1,107 groceries in Cincinnati. The saloons are patronized by a very large proportion of the population. The amount paid over the counters annually for liquors of all kinds is much larger than the amount paid over the counter of the county treasurer in June and December on account of taxes. It is also safe to say a larger amount is paid for drinks than is disbursed at the corner grocers for food, or at the dry goods stores for clothing, or at the butchers' stalls for meat. Nearly all of the liquor money is spent by men. On this side there seems to be not much economy. Therefore, reduction in expenses strikes women and children. This is not a temperance lecture, but it may be asked, how hard are the times when 1,500 saloons and 6,000 able bodied men are supported by the purchasers of drinks?

Fear of Alex. Stephens.

[From the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, (Bull-dozer Organ.)]

Mr. Stephens gives strength and respectability to the independent movement. By adhering to his bold and defiant position he will strike a deadly blow at the life of the organized Democracy in the eighth district. If the independent movement succeeds in this district it will extend to every district in Georgia. The evil effects that will follow cannot be exaggerated. In place of a solid Democratic representation in congress the state may be represented in part by four or five Independents. This apprehension is not groundless. In many of the districts the negroes have a majority, and the only way in which this majority can be overcome is by a strict adherence to Democratic usages.

On the 3d July exercises commemorative of the one hundredth anniversary of the battle and massacre of Wyoming were held in that historic valley. President Hayes was present. He was presented by one thousand ladies of Wyoming valley with a cane made from a tree which was growing at the time of the massacre.

Charles Reade's letters on "The Coming Man," who is to use his en hand as well as his right, and one of the English history books, "The Settlement of the Constitution," by James Rawley, will straightway be added to the Harper Half-Hour Books.

DECISION IN THE U. S. DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

U. S. District Court—District of Oregon.

TUESDAY, July 2, 1878.

THE BLENHEIM—PETCY Iredale et al., Claimants.

FREIGHT—DELIVERY OF. A vessel while taking on a cargo of flour by the charterer by mistake of the master and wharfinger took on 83 sacks more than was entered upon the bill of lading or shipped on account of the charter—Held, that it was the duty of the master upon discovering the cargo at the port of delivery, if the owner of the 83 sacks of flour was not present to receive the same, to store it safely, subject to freight and charges, and notify the owner thereof, and that having failed to do so, but delivered the same to the charterer or his assigns, whereby the flour was lost to the owner, the vessel is liable for the value of the same with interest.

LIMITATION IN ADMIRALTY. A demand in Admiralty is not necessarily barred by lapse of time, but the matter rests in the discretion of the court, to be governed by the circumstances of the case considered with reference to the wants and convenience of commerce and the analogies of the local law of limitation.

DEADY, J.

This suit is brought by the libelant, John S. Bernard, to recover the sum of $150, the alleged value of a quantity of flour shipped on the British barque Blenheim, and not delivered or accounted for. The testimony in the case is meagre and leaves some points, made by counsel, in doubt. But the following facts are satisfactorily established. In January, 1874, and thereafter, the libellant was engaged in the business of a wharfinger

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 9, 1878.

SPOILING A CASE.

The chairman of the Potter committee, in the letter he has written to Secretary Sherman refusing to him an opportunity to substantiate the charges he has made as to outrages in the Louisiana election, has not helped the case which the committee is anxious to make. Such refusal looks to the country as part of a purpose to pursue a one-sided investigation. It is pretended that any wrong and violence that may have been perpetrated before the election is out of place in the inquiry before the committee. This is a convenient dodge for Mr. Potter, but it will not answer. The very question at the bottom of this whole business is that which the committee refuses to consider. It is claimed, and the figures presented go far to support the the assertion, that by wrong and violence in several parishes an illegal result was obtained. This was the result under which the state was claimed for Tilden; and the inquiry proposed by Sherman and denied by Potter is the proper and only method of ascertaining whether the claim for Tilden is well-founded or not. Since the Potter committee decline to enter upon this investigation, to which it is specifically challenged, it is apparent that they don't think they could afford the developments it would produce. In other words, the committee's business is to investigate only its own side of the subject. Managed thus, the investigation is not helping the Democratic party. Fairness is above all things the most necessary quality in any affair like this. A willingness to let the whole truth come out is indispensable to any good result. It is admitted that the returning board threw out the returns from certain parishes where the results were obviously fraudulent. East Feliciana is an instance. In that parish in the previous election there had been nearly two thousand Republican votes; but on this occasion only a single Republican vote got into the ballot boxes. Sherman has offered to show what methods and influences produced fraudulent results like this; but the committee refuse. They have based their case on a theory that persons who are now members of the administration used undue influence with the returning board to get the electoral vote of the state; but this has failed. No proof has been furnished that corrupt promises were made, though there has been the most thorough possible search for it; and at last it even appears that Sherman never wrote the letter attributed to him, in which promises to Anderson and others were alleged. E. L. Weber has indeed testified that his brother, just before he was killed, showed him such letter in the handwriting of Sherman, and that a year ago he destroyed it with other papers found in his brother's collection. But Weber has been impeached by his own testimony. He has been swearing there was no intimidation in West Feliciana, and yet has been confronted with a letter written by himself to a cousin in March, 1877, relative to his brother's death, in which he said: "One by one our white and colored Republicans are murdered. The assassins of my brother are at large as yet and officiating in the capacity of Nicholls' officers in the parish. He lived in West Feliciana, and Republicans with terror imprinted on their faces whisper, 'Who will be next?'" Though the investigation has ceased to attract any great attention, yet it would still be a matter of interest and curiosity to find a Louisiana witness who has not confessed to perjuries or told acknowledged lies in regard to the matter under inquiry. On the whole the Democratic case is injured by this investigation. It leaves the charges of fraud, on which the party managers based many hopes for future elections, with less to support them than they had before. The cry of fraud will have much less potency than formerly. The case is quite badly spoiled. A whole outfit of campaign material is sadly damaged, if not ruined entirely.

A NEGLECTED INDUSTRY.

The Scientific American devotes an article to examination of the condition of the linen industry in the United States. It shows that in this industry may be found a new field for the employment of an immense amount of labor and capital. Thirty years ago several establishments were in operation in New England, manufacturing the various kinds of fine linen goods. The mills, it is observed, were enabled to start by placing of a duty of 25 per cent. on linen goods in 1842, while such goods had previously been admitted free of duty. But in 1857 the duty was removed and the industry was strangled. The only mills in the United States now weaving flax fabrics to any considerable extent are said to be those at Webster, Mass.; but there are two or three other establishments that are small producers. All, however, turn out coarse fabrics, as crash and huckaback. In the central western states there were nearly one hundred flax bagging mills up to 1872, but the reduction of duty on jute caused an almost complete transfer to jute bagging, though tow bagging is still produced at a few places. Extensive flax thread mills are in operation in New York and New Jersey. Of the raw flax worked up in this country it is said 4,000 tons are imported and only 1,000 are of home production. The complaint against the American flax fibre is that it is not skillfully cared for and is carelessly cured. Good fibre in the countries from which it is imported is worth from twelve to fifteen cents a pound. Duty added, it is worth at New York about twenty cents. The value of the flax industry of Russia is $100,000,000 a year, and of England $50,000,000 a year. "The establishment of a linen industry in America is not a work of a day, but the fact that the country has every requisite of the world for its successful establishment should incite our people to make the necessary effort. Much inventive skill would of necessity be called into action to supply labor-saving appliances, and considerable capital, labor and patience would be required to obtain success. The government should be willing to accord it the same assistance, by way of a duty upon imported goods, which is afforded the silk industry, and with that there need be no risk of ultimate success." It may be added that remarkable specimens of flax fibre have been produced in Oregon. They have attracted attention wherever shown; and this is sure of being in time one of our great industries.

When taken at a disadvantage the bravest Indians are easily demoralized, though when driven into a corner they sometimes fight desperately. And always when they have an advantage there are no more intrepid fighters in the world. There is more need of caution and strategy in fighting Indians than in engaging the bravest troops of any civilized country. Our policy has allowed the Indian to arm himself with the most approved weapon, in the use of which he has become an expert. And in his hands of horses he has great advantages for warfare. We can't kill the Indian population outright, and end the troublesome question once for all, because humanity would not allow it. But it wouldn't be inhuman to leave the Indian to trudge afoot, and to take away from him these terrible and death-dealing rifles. And besides so long as he has his horse and gun he will be a mere nomad and vagabond, incapable of real improvement.

It was really quite beyond belief that the Indians would make an attempt to cross the Columbia river; yet such attempt has actually been made, at least by a portion of the hostile band. It is so hazardous an enterprise that it might well have been doubted that they would undertake it. After all, those who have made the attempt may be only small, detached parties, mostly non-combatants, and not the fighting force. It is almost certain that the efforts to cross which were foiled yesterday were renewed last night. If not, the Indians will probably retreat rapidly, because they cannot possibly remain any length of time where they are. It is the more amazing that they should have undertaken so great a risk as that of moving down through a country where so many people would rise in arms against them to a great river difficult to cross on which steamboats are continually passing, when they might have escaped with far less risk toward the east. Seldom has so bold and hazardous a thing been attempted by a party of Indians. The fact that Gen. Howard is reported at Pilot Rock indicates that the whole body of Indians has moved away from their former position about Camas Prairie. Otherwise he would have attacked them.

George C. Gorham, secretary of the congressional Republican committee, and also of the United States senate, recently sent a circular to all officeholders, requesting campaign funds. It was a rather audacious proceeding for civil service times; and in fact it looked about as much like a forced levy as any call for contributions ever did. It went to the Boston custom house, whereupon the collector issued a counter circular informing each and every subordinate that he needn't contribute if he didn't want to, and that his decision on the subject would have no effect whatever upon his standing as an officer. It is needless to say that no remittance is reported from the Boston custom house.

A Washington dispatch says it has been decided to send Joseph's Nez Perces Indians, who have been kept for several months at Leavenworth, to the Indian territory, and give them a reservation there. They object to going, and want to come back to Oregon and Idaho, not realizing, probably, how unhealthy they would find it in their old haunts, should they return. People in the Indian territory do not want them taken into their midst, no doubt thinking a lot who have their eccentric and unpleasant habit of stealing, killing and scalping, rather undesirable neighbors.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 9,

CITY.

DARING BURGLARY.—About 2 o'clock last morning the hotel of Jacob P. Mohawkie was entered by burglars. The landlord and his wife, who were occupied access to the room occupied by the bed was moved sufficiently to effect intruders an opportunity to drag out a which was kept between the bed and This was carried about two hundred and to a point in the road opposite Lueling's residence, where it was broken with rocks, and $830, besides a watch of $130, were extracted. Other articles of value were strewn about the house, some loaves of bread were taken from were hungry. The windows of Mr. Lueling's residence were tried, but the parties failed to gain an entrance. They destroyed a and shrubbery while engaged in their A sailor who had but recently worked for Mr. Lueling, is supposed to be one of the parties. Tracks indicated that they took the road to Portland.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON MEETING AT THE A.—The singing on the street, and a the room above, drew a fair number of alleration of the excitement on the the third chapter of I Cor. was read by the leader who, after suggesting that dressing be largely given to prayer for aid in the field of war, made a few remarks on the necessity of building on sound foundation and on the only sure foundation. and fervent prayers were offered by prompted in behalf of soldiers in the and the Indians. Among other remarks said that we are prone to apply it to others which as well or better applies to ourselves. Many remained after the meeting was dismissed to engage in the singing.

AN ANCIENT CANE.—Mr. Geo. T. Baker, the New Caledonia Saloon, received a few weeks ago a very old walking stick from Scotland. The cane was sent by his grandfather, a bale old Scotchman, who attained a green age. This cane is large and is composed of two kinds of wood. Then the growth was a mere twig, which was inoculated and was subsequently cut so as to send some distance above and below the points where the woods united. This was cut over 60 years ago from what is known as Lady Furgerson's estate, in Scotland, and is very highly prized by Mr. Reid as a relic from.

HOUSE ENTERED.—A few nights ago the residence of Mr. R. L. Durham, on 84th street between Mill and Montgomery, was entered by burglars during the absence of the family. On returning home next day Mrs. D. was surprised to find everything topsy-turvy about the house. The thief or thieves had ransacked the premises from one end to the other—opened drawers, upset the beds, and scattered the household effects about promiscuously. Nothing, however was stolen or under cultivation, with a dwelling house, stable and orchard connected, a never-failing creek, running through part of it, a school and church making it a very desirable place for a person seeking a small farm. For further particulars, inquire of Messrs. WADHAM & KILNER, Portland, or M. COCKERLINE, on the premises. my30d1wt

ARMS FORWARDED

Yesterday Judge McArthur received the following from Gov Chadwick

SALEM July 8th

To Judge J W McArthur, Umatilla: I make requisition on the United States for those guns I have had to furnish May Reese forty of state guns for this service. Send me all you can Hostilities crossing above and below us with stock

S I CHADWICK

The requisition was at once served on the militia companies in the city and the guns belonging to these companies turned over to Judge McArthur who will forward them this morning. Capt Sladen has also been notified and requested to have the necessary ammunition forwarded at once This leaves the militia on parties here short of arms and they of course will remain at home it having been deemed more expedient to enlist men in Umatilla county than to send them from here In the meantime an independent volunteer company composed of the following named citizens has been formed in this city and will hold themselves in readiness to go at the call of the authorities

INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH

PORTLAND VICTORIA

Owing to pressure upon our space we have only been able to briefly refer to this interesting match played on the 4th between the above teams at the ground of the P C C South Portland Considerable interest was manifested in the noble game by our citizens and a large numbers of them were spectators throughout the whole match Capt Creighton of the Portland team having won the toss elected to send their opponents to the wickets and the game commenced at 11 o'clock A M with Capt Layton and J Howard handling the willow The play of the former gentleman was the theme of admiration and his enthusiasm intense The bowling of Maxwell at Kinross for the Portland team was very effective and the last wicket fell before the lunch bell had rung with the score standing b

The Portland team went to the wickets rather elated for they had expected their foes to make a much better score and batting with all the more [illegible] against them was now in favor of our boys Every spare [illegible] was thrown into the [illegible] gentlemen are equally good with the ball and each our players a silent lesson of what can be accomplished by steady practice This is what all no doubt were the Portland players able to accomplish not having the short business hours and Saturday half holiday of their British cousins to perfect themselves in the science of cricket indeed the first time the entire team had played together was on the 4th The Portland team closed their first innings with a score of 30 and rather dispirited again took the field with Drake and Howard of the V C C defending the wickets They made a splendid stand and it was not until the Victorians had run up a score of 176 that the last wicket fell Creighton and Kinross bowled well though the latter gentleman sometimes bowls very wildly We have only to point to the great number of wides scored by the Victorians through this defect to show our promise to be correct Play calmly and carefully boys and when you go over to Victoria you will give a much better account of yourselves

On the morning of the 5th the Portland team had their second innings and were even more unsuccessful than on the previous day only making a score of 18 the Victorians thus winning the match by 146 runs

None of the V C C is a splendid long stop and indeed a better team could not have been brought over from Victoria The Portland team will yet turn out some splendid cricketers if they can only get sufficient opportunities for practice

Prof Brenner's fine band played through out the match and Mr J Reed successfully catered for the wants of the inner man

We append the scores

RIVER AND HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.

The engineer in charge of this district has received a copy of the river and harbor bill and has been directed to report to the war department what action the improvements under the following appropriations viz

Lower Willamette and Columbia	$20 00
Upper Columbia and Snake	5,000
Upper Willamette	70 00
Dalles canal	75 00
Mouth of the Columbia river	5 00

The appropriation for the mouth of the river reads as follows

For the improvement of the mouth of the Columbia river, Oregon $50 000 the same or so much thereof as may be necessary to be expended under the direction of the secretary of war in making thorough survey of the bar at the mouth of said river and in the preparation of a plan and estimates for its permanent improvement any balance to be used in the temporary improvement of said bar

The engineer in charge has anticipated this letter as I reported what was to be done on June 9th

It is expected to continue dredging the various bars below Portland on the lower Willamette and Columbia as the appropriation is not sufficient to build either of the projected dams and keep the dredge at work at the bar all winter the effect of the dam if completed would be built The dredge will start out on July 15th as the river will then be low enough to commence work On the upper Columbia and Snake the work will be confined to 5 mile rapids and Time Tree rapids on the Snake river and bids will be called for by advertisement as soon as authority from Washington is returned

On the Upper Willamette the work will consist of removing rock from the river at Bissells and Rivers rocks near Rock Island It was on Bissells rock that the Bonanza was wrecked in 1876 The snagboat has already been sent out and is now at the mouth of the Yamhill As soon as it returns in the fall steam propelling power will be put on it

A the Cascade canal the work of constructing locks will be commenced as soon as the title is approved for the land The work will be advertised as soon as authority is received from Washington and the contract awarded so that there shall be no delay about getting to work as soon as the title is approved

The survey of the mouth of the river will be commenced in August This will be a very elaborate work as the size of the Columbia river renders it necessary to make an extensive survey It is possible that the immediate work may be in direct charge of an officer who will report to the engineer of this district to assist him

Surveys are ordered in the bill at the following places but the engineer in charge has not yet received orders about them Cedar water river Idaho Cape Foulweather Oregon to ascertain its adaptability as a harbor of refuge the entrance to Coos bay Port Orford Oregon to ascertain its adaptability as a harbor of refuge Coquille river, Oregon Alsea river and bay Oregon Rogue river Oregon, between Scottsburg and its mouth

It will be observed that another survey is ordered at Port Orford Major Robert made a complete report on this subject in 1875

It will also be observed that a survey is ordered of Rogue river, between Scottsburg and its mouth Scottsburg is on the Umpqua river, some distance north of Rogue river

Specifications and forms for advertisements for work on the Cascade canal, and on the Snake and Upper Columbia rivers, have been prepared and forwarded to Washington with a request for authority to publish at once

THE FOURTH AT LEBANON.

"Spectator," writing from Lebanon, Linn county, under date of the 6th inst, sends the following

There was a Fourth of July celebration here under the management of the following committee J L Gilbert, F M Miller R McCalley W B Donica and J C Elder

The orator of the day was Hon John F Caples of your city who delivered a very interesting and patriotic address Good music was furnished by the Glee Club, with Miss Gilbert organist, and the Lebanon brass band

The sisterhood of states was nicely represented by thirty eight of the young ladies and little girls of Lebanon and vicinity

Rev White, of the Methodist church was the chaplain and Dr L Foley reader of the Declaration Ira Taylor recited Drake's poem to The American Flag

The ladies furnished plenty of good things to eat, and the march provoking feature of the occasion was the performances of the Lebanon Horribles, at 3 P M The exercises closed with a grand ball at night

There were from 2 500 to 3 000 people present during the day and everything passed off pleasantly and orderly, with credit to the town and community, and especially to the managers of the celebration

ART AND RELIGION.

[By Holland in Scribner for July]

Bear us witness ye poets and actors ye painters and sculptors ye singers and players upon instruments that your arts have not saved the most of you from becoming petty and selfish men and women You are jealous of one another You are greedy of praise and of the gold it brings You know that there is nothing in your art that enlarges and liberalizes you that restrains you from drunkenness and vices that shall not be named, that gives you sobriety and solidity of character that enlarges your social sympathies that naturally leads you into organizations for helping others outside of your own circle Bear us witness that you are not the men and women who are relied on for performing the duties of society If all were like you—if all were controlled by the ideas that dominate you—if all shirked the duties of social and civil life like you—if all were as much unfitted by their ideas and their employments as you are for carrying the great burdens of society what do you suppose would become of the country and what would become of the world?

Now if there is anything in art that can take the place of religion, we should like to see it If there is anything in culture that can take the place of religion it has not yet revealed itself Culture is centered in self Self is the god and self is the model of all culture Why should it not ultimate in selfishness? Culture assumes that what is present in a man needs only to be developed and harmonized to lift character to its highest point and life to its highest issues It carries no idea of self surrender which is the first fact in practical religion of any valuable sort and the first fact in all good development Greece and Rome had plenty of culture and are still our teachers in art but the beauty that looked upon them from every hill and gate and temple could not save them from their vices By and by culture will learn how powerless it is to make a man that should be worth the making and what poor instruments science and art are for uprooting the selfishness that rules the world It is slowly learning this and men who have bowed low to her have been touched with that divine discontent which nothing but religion can allay

LETTER FROM LA GRANDE

A prominent gentleman of this city received yesterday the following letter from a well known merchant of the above place The letter bears date of July 31 The writer says

I know what you will be anxious to hear from us up in this Indian country so I will drop a few lines

We are quite an Indian excitement and with good cause We learn by special courier this afternoon that the Bannacks from their reservation in the Blue mountains have left their reservation and are on the war path Their route is up the Umatilla river which will bring them through our valley

Col Smith has all been in our valley for a week on their annual fishing and hunting excursion and on receiving the news of the Indians they threw out scouts in all directions over the valley and by Monday night all the settlers were required to call them home which they did This will put all the settlers around Island City yesterday and some of them will be awful sorry that they bought the other We thought we certainly detected Indians on Mount Emily in the mountains in town and on some of the rocks used to buy powder and lead so pound for it Canada was in a fever in La Grande as the rumors were put on the bills everybody left the town

We had twenty reporting rifles stated in this week's Oregonian which we distributed among the first men in town and last night Harris and I stood guard all night

Feeling we organized a company of volunteers nearly thirty strong and after twenty more reporting rifles from Union with plenty of ammunition We have sent out six scouts armed and mounted and feel more secure I do not apprehend any danger from the Indians now have power with old Homily and others to day and they say they are going to stand in with the whites against the Indians which is confirmed by the news from Pendleton stating that the Umatillas were holding the Bannacks in check on Birch creek but would have to retreat to the reservation owing to superior numbers of the Bannacks

My opinion is that with the military under Howard pressing them so hot from the rear and the two companies of infantry from Walla Walla on the Umatilla reservation the Indians will be right through our section as quickly as possible and not stop for any side fight on the way Still as they have been burning and destroying property all along their route, they may come through La Grande, and if they do, it will make hot work for us to protect our families and property The next 48 hours will determine which direction they propose to travel in We think they have abandoned the idea of crossing the Columbia and will make for their old battle ground of last year on Salmon river Idaho

LATER.—Families are just arriving from Sheep Ranch upon the Grande Ronde, about 30 miles from there a special messenger warned them to leave and he was chased for ten miles by a squad of the hostiles before he got into Sheep Ranch I hardly think the hostiles could reach us to night but we shall be on the alert Our committee of safety is now in session arranging plans for congregating the women and children if the scouts send in any alarm

THE PEAR AND CHERRY SLUG.

This pest is becoming troublesome in Oregon. The following, from the Pacific Rural Press San Francisco) will be read with interest:

The pear slug is one of the oldest offenders among injurious insects. In 1799 the late Prof. Peck was awarded a premium by the Massachusetts Agricultural Society for an essay describing the insect and its work, and since that time the pest has kept alive its unenviable reputation in the different parts of the country. Its prevalence in this state is of recent origin, and perhaps the pear trees in some regions have not yet been attacked. Therefore we shall not only cite remedies, as requested, but shall give some description of the insect and its habits.

The insect is closely allied to the slimy slug which was abundant in Europe in the time of Linnæus. To entomologists it is known as Selandria cerasi, Peck. The slug is the larval form of a saw fly which is described by Harris in these words: "This fly is of a glossy black color, except the first two pairs of legs, which are dirty yellow or clay-colored, with blackish thighs; and the hind legs, which are dull black, with clay-colored knees. The wings are somewhat convex and rumpled or uneven on the upper side. They are transparent, reflecting the changeable colors of the rain-bow and have a smoky tinge, forming a cloud or broad band across the middle of the first pair; the veins are brownish. The body of the female measures rather more than one-fifth of an inch in length; that of the male is smaller."

These flies appear early in the spring in this climate; earlier than in the east. They lay their eggs, one in a place, in little incisions in the leaf, generally on the under side. The eggs hatch in 14 days and the slugs soon make their presence known by their evil work upon the leaves. Harris says: "At first the slugs are white, but a slimy matter soon oozes out of their skin and covers their back with an olive-colored sticky coat. They have twenty very short legs. The largest slugs are about nine-twentieths of an inch in length when fully grown. The head, of a dark chestnut color, is small, and is entirely concealed under the fore part of the body. They are largest before the taper behind, and in form somewhat resemble minute tad-poles. They have a faculty of swelling out the fore part of the body and generally rest with the tail a little turned up. These disgusting slugs live mostly on the upper side of the leaves of the pear and the cherry, and eat away the substance of the leaf, leaving only the veins and the skin beneath untouched. Sometimes 20 or 30 of them may be seen on a single leaf, and sometimes they have been so abundant in Massachusetts that small trees were covered with them, the foliage entirely destroyed and the air around the tree charged with a disagreeable and sickening odor.

"The slugs come to their full growth in 28 days, during which period they cast their skins five times. After casting their last coat they are not slimy, but have a clean, yellow skin. They also become longer, and their heads and the marks between the wings are plainly to be seen. In a few hours after this change, they leave the trees, and, having crept or fallen to the ground, they burrow to the depth of from one inch to three or four inches, according to the nature of the soil. The worm forms a cell or cocoon of particles of earth, and in 16 days after the descent of the worm to the ground, the fly comes forth from the surface, flies to the leaves and lays its eggs for another generation of slugs. In the fall the worms which go into the ground remain there during the winter, and thus provide for the appearance of the fly the following year."

The remedies for the pear slug are simple, easily applied and quite effective if diligently used. One is powdering the leaves thoroughly with air-slacked lime. This can be done by attaching a flour-sieve to the end of a pole, filling it with the lime dust and shaking it over the tree so as to coat the leaves. This should be done when the dew is on them. As the slugs feed mostly upon the tops of the leaves, they are easily reached by the lime. Another good treatment is to drench the trees with a solution of two pounds of whale-oil soap in 15 gallons of water, applying the wash with a garden pump and hose, with a "rose" or sprinkling nozzle. Much good could also be done in the long run by the harboring of insectivorous birds, to whom the slimy slug seems a choice morsel. We should also expect good results from a flock of hens in the pear orchard at the time when the slugs are falling from the trees to burrow in the ground. When the season is over and the slugs have done their worst for the year, a frequent working of the soil in the winter with a cultivator would break up their cocoons and destroy many of the hibernating pests.

RUST IN WHEAT.

[From the Pacific Rural Press.]

Without going too far into the history of the rust fungus as it has been laid down by scientific investigators, it may be said that the life of the rust is formed of several stages. One part of this life is passed upon some other plant than the grain upon which its effect is most ruinous. The passage of germs from the barberry to the grain has been clearly shown both by the experience of farmers where the barberry grows, and by scientific study of the fungus appearing on each. The spore of the rust which is formed to carry the plant from one year to another is called a "teleutospore." The teleutospore, as shown by Mr. B. D. Halsted in an address before the Massachusetts horticultural society, usually bears from five to ten sporidia, and allowing only one of these to find the barberry leaf, there may be from one to fifty clusters as a result. In carrying out his estimate of the rapid increase of the fungus, Mr. Halsted supposes that only one cluster is formed, and a very low estimate for its contents would be 250,000 sporidium spores, and if only one of these in a thousand finds a place on the grain stalk and each brings forth its 250,000 fold, there would be under such circumstances 62,500,000 from the single one from which we started.

There is no specific for overcoming or preventing the occurrence of rust. There is no variety of wheat which has been tried under all conditions and withstood the fungus well enough to be accepted as rust-proof. It is universally acknowledged that the disease is so much controlled by atmospheric conditions that, so long as we grow plants liable to its attack, we can do nothing but sow our fields at the time which generally yields us best crops and abide the results.

GEN. GRANT AND THE PRESIDENCY.

PORTLAND, July 2, 1878.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As the paragraphs that are going the rounds of the press seem designed to bring out the sentiment of the public in regard to the advisability of nominating Grant for the third term, I would like to say a few words as a voter and a Republican. In the first place, the party would be, in my judgment, committing suicide by such nomination; and in the second, the idea that such nomination is a necessity is absurd. If this government is so near gone that there is only one man who can control its destenies I think that we had better let it go. It is not worth preserving. If the party should nominate Grant as their strongest man it would be an acknowledgement of their weakness and would insure the Democrats a long lease of power, if it did not entirely destroy the party. Such a proposition, coming from Grant's old cabinet officers and appointees is in very bad taste to say the least, and looks as though a few politicians were willing for the sake of office to ride the Republican party to victory or immediate death for their own selfish ends. Some are of opinion that the war is not over yet, at least they would like to impress that idea on the public mind. This willingness of certain ones to disregard established usages and let their ambition run away with them is not wanting in precedent. But enough, I for one am willing to trust the judgment of the party

REPUBLICAN.

Her mamma possessed a handsome terrier of which the little one was very fond, and when the dog died she was disconsolate until, asking her mamma what had become of her poor Flossy, she was told that perhaps Flossy had gone to heaven. "Oh! of course she has, mamma, for you know she was a Skye terrier;" and the fountain of her tears was dried.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

MONDAY EVENING, July 8, 1878.

Gold in New York, 100¼.

Legal tenders in Portland—buying 99½; selling par.

Silver coin, 2¼@3¼ per cent. discount.

SAN FRANCISCO July 8.—Standard silver dollar or silver dollar certificates 99¾@100.

Legal tenders 99½ bid, 99¾ asked.

Brokers are buying half-dollars at 2½ per cent. discount, and selling them at 3@3¼ per cent. discount.

Trades, 99@99¼; Mexican 92@91.

The monetary situation continues to present as quiet and somewhat sluggish phase, with no unusual call. Rates are unchanged, and the supply of funds available in the way of loans is reported ample to meet the current demand.

The uniformly low rates of interest and the full supply of money in the market has induced a great deal of local improvement and in this city, especially the number of buildings, generally from fair to first class dwellings that are being erected, is greater than in any former season. Real estate has also been quite active during the entire season, and parties seeking eligible city or farm property have found that such is almost invariably held from 10 to 25 per cent higher than it was two years ago. The advance is not the result of a spirit of speculation in any degree, but comes of the natural growth of the country, and is therefore permanent.

The financial bureau of the government having accepted the ultimatum of the financial legislation, which for the present is at an end, now moves along smoothly, performing the functions of its office with more assurance to its head and to the nation. The discount upon currency has dwindled away until there is little remaining for the gold broker in this country, and were it not for the exchange of government's which offers a fair commission, his office would be without patronage or encouragement.

Late advices say that in the east it is now considered that in general prices of all commodities as well as real property are accepted as bedrock, yet capitalists as a rule hold aloof from investments.

The Mercantile Journal of New York says: "In truth our material interests are suffering to day quite as much from a want of perception that now is the time to invest as they suffered in the first instance from the over-confidence and inflation that produced the panic."

Breadstuffs Shipments.

From the first of July, 1877, to the 1st of July, 1878, the wheat and flour shipments from Oregon to San Francisco and Europe were as follows:

Wheat to Europe	2,213,118 centals.
Flour to Europe	38,120 barrels.
Wheat to San Francisco	481,326 centals.
Flour to San Francisco	98,181 barrels.

The above reduced to wheat and to bushels is equivalent to 5,112,336 bushels, to which, if we add the exports to northern ports and the surplus yet in the state we will have as the total surplus from last harvest 6,000,000 bushels. This is the largest crop ever produced in Oregon and from the very latest advices from the interior we are inclined to believe will not be greatly exceeded by the crop of the present year.

Domestic Produce.

There are but few changes to note in this department since our last report. In breadstuffs there is absolutely nothing new, no transactions either in wheat or charters. The vessels at hand and not engaged for salmon are quietly waiting the turn in the market, which is expected to follow soon after harvest. The wool market shows more animation, and buyers seem more free to secure choice lots, but low grade wools are still taken with a great deal of reluctance, except at the extreme low rates. Some extra choice has been sold at 24 cts, but this can hardly be taken as a standard from which to judge the market.

Potatoes have shown a downward tendency, and are more plentiful. The new crop from California largely supplies the local trade. Eggs have been scarcer and sold at 25 cents per dozen.

San Francisco Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7—Flour—Dull; Oregon extra, $6@6 5.

Wheat—Good demand and firm; new, $1 60; old, $1 60@1 70.

Barley—Better feeling; 74@90c.

Oats—Firmer but no sales.

Corn—Steady; Omaha, $1 90; California nominal, market bare.

Rye—Nothing doing.

Bran—Demand fair; but at lower rates. $7@12.

Potatoes—Steady; $1 50@2½.

Wool—Firm and in fair demand; southern, 15@18c; northern fair to choice, 22@25½; eastern Oregon, 17@20c; valley, 20@22½c.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Great Republic, we learn, did not get to sea until this morning.

There were five vessels loading at Astoria last Saturday, the Tam O'Shanter, lumber for San Francisco, and the Lupata, City of Halifax, Dovenby and Edith Lom, salmon for Europe.

The steamship Oregon, hence, arrived at San Francisco to-day.

The barkentine Grace Roberts, from South America in ballast, is in the river.

The steamships Great Republic and Oregon are announced to sail from San Francisco for Portland on next Saturday.

The bark Mattie Macleay, from Honolulu, is due at this port.

The bark Garibaldi, hence with lumber, has arrived at Melbourne, Australia.

P. M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Private Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases: Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of, and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints, and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which will restore to health their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE

over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts for his great professional success.

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally, and will forward the proper medicines, or instruments, to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps.

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify.

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors, through pretended friendship for the patient. Look out for them: they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN, the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door.
